EDITORIAL PREFACE

I would like to welcome you to the Vol 1 issue 2 of the SLU Journal of Science and Technology, a peer-reviewed and broad-scope Journal that aims at bridging the gap between Science and Technology, and addresses both academics and practicing professionals. The Journal is designed to advance scientific knowledge and promote innovations that are focused in solving some of our problems.

Definitely, there are a number of Journals covering the above-mentioned areas. However, this Journal will be unique in that it encourages authors to submit works addressing key primal in scientific and engineering issues. In addition, the Journal is one of the few in Nigeria with standard and functional online editorial management system that gives authors an opportunity to view through their dashboard the review processes from submission up to the publishing stage of their Articles.

This issue of the Journal includes thirteen (13) papers with high level of originality. They determine the face of the Journal and set the stage of subsequent issues that will publish mostly research papers: experimental, computational and reviews in the field of Science and Technology.

Finally, I would like to thank many people who created the opportunity for the Journal to be born and who made it happen. The list includes all current Editorial board members and Editorial advisory board members. In particular my thanks to Dr. Nasir Faruk (Managing Editor) for his tireless efforts in making the Journal a reality and Dr. Sani Durumin Iya (Assistant Managing Editor) for unwavering help.

Umar Ali, Ph.D.
